TREPPEN

For decades Siller is constantly looking for new materials that would allow to expand design and construction possibilities in the stair market. Even in such classic materials as concrete we have found some space for improvement. By investing in researches we found ways to avoid most common issues with concrete such as cracks, different colors or too heavy steps. This allows us to produce exclusive quality concrete stairs for our customers. Cantilevered steps are lighter, concrete surface is smoother and also better looking than usual concrete constructions. Because at the end - quality is what we all want when building our dream home.
