BUILDING IN TIME: A MODERN QUESTION

essay by, saggio di
Stefano Casciani

There is no exact date to establish when the revolution of modern furniture began.

We could go to the end of the nineteenth century, to the eccentricities of Art Nouveau or the elegance of Viennese furniture, or a little later perhaps, to the beginning of the use of the metal tube, for some extremists.

What is certain is that from an unanticipated moment, around the turn of the century, furniture stopped imitating the past and made the honest members of the bourgeoisie face their responsibilities as inhabitants of modernity. Whether they were major or minor, the bravest artists, designers, engineers and architects all embarked on a venture for rejuvenation that lasted almost the entire length of the 20th century and their clients (users and manufacturers) have reacted fairly well to their revolutionary aspirations.

Time, however, goes by inexorably, and in its flow there always lies the possibility that some might look back on their own path as explorers of the future. Hence today there are still those who design, produce and use contemporary furniture and objects and still abide by the lessons of those who in the past have worked extremely hard inizia la rivoluzione del mobile moderno.*

*Non esiste una data precisa per stabilire quando

Si potrebbe andare alla fine dell'Ottocento, alle eccentricità Art Nouveau o all'eleganza del mobile viennese: un po' più avanti, all'inizio dell'uso del tubo metallico, per gli oltranzisti. Certo è che da un bel momento in poi, all'incirca da un secolo all'altro, l'arredamento ha superato l'imitazione del passato e ha messo i buoni borghesi di fronte alle loro responsabilità di abitanti della modernità. Maggiori o minori, artisti o designer, ingegneri o architetti, i progettisti più coraggiosi si sono lanciati in un'impresa di rinnovamento che ha preso quasi tutto il XX secolo e i loro clienti (produttori o utenti) hanno mediamente saputo rispondere alle loro aspirazioni rivoluzionarie.

Il tempo scorre però senza sosta e nel suo scorrere c'è sempre la possibilità che qualcuno voglia tornare a guardarsi indietro, lungo le proprie orme di esploratore del futuro. Così oggi c'è ancora chi progetta, produce, utilizza mobili e oggetti contemporanei ma non vuole rinunciare a un dialogo con la lezione di quanti in passato hanno molto e bene lavorato sul problema dell'arredamento. Anche in questo non è però semplice trovare and exceedingly well on the issue of furniture. And even here it is not easy to find coherent solutions. So nowadays, between obsessively imitating the works of the “masters”, which are eventually bound to run out in terms of quantity and quality, and attempting radical innovation, which is more and more difficult to achieve, there is a third solution for furniture production wanting to reference a memory which is still modern. A third way with technical origins imbued with past knowledge of the craft, yet which knows how to see the world with a fresh look, devoid of nostalgia.

So nowadays there is a way to produce furniture that alludes to a memory which is still modern; a way with technical origins imbued with past knowledge of the craft, yet which knows how to see the world with a fresh look, devoid of nostalgia.

Thus it seems interesting there ever was a time without “masters” (or at least not yet venerated as such) where the most promising designers acted instinctively, experimenting with traditional techniques and materials by adjusting them to new ideas and innovative codifications. This is how the Maxalto production was born within B&B Italia back in the 70s, stemming from the entrepreneurial curiosity of Piero Ambrogio Busnelli and the experimental enthusiasm of Tobia Scarpa. The practical knowledge that came to Scarpa from observing the work of his father Carlo was part and parcel of his designer’s DNA: where craftsmanship stands for passion for manual execution, and the highest quality is achieved through the processing of wood and other high-end materials, treated “piece by piece”. From an industrial point of view it might seem like a contradiction. Certainly back then that decision was seen as unusual, as the period was still showing great enthu-soluzioni coerenti. Tra riprodurre maniacalmente i progetti dei “maestri” (che a lungo andare però si esauriscono, per quantità e qualità) e tentare un’innovazione radicale sempre più difficile da ottenere, per una produzione d’arredamento che voglia rifarsi oggi a una memoria comunque moderna, una terza via sembra quella di un progetto colto: che ha le sue origini tecniche in una sapienza costruttiva passata ma sa guardare al mondo con uno sguardo attuale, privo di nostalgia.

Risulta dunque interessante un tempo in cui non esistevano i “maestri” (o almeno non come sono stati poi venerati) e i progettisti che lo stavano diventando agivano istintivamente, sperimentando tecniche e materiali della tradizione inserite su idee e tipologie innovative. Così è nata da B&B Italia negli anni 70 la produzione Maxalto, dalla curiosità d’imprenditore di Piero Ambrogio Busnelli e dall’entusiasmo sperimentale di Tobia Scarpa. La cultura materiale che veniva a Scarpa dalla frequentazione col lavoro del padre Carlo era strettamente parte del suo DNA di progettista: dove artigianato significa passione per l’esecuzione ancora manuale, intesa come alta qualità possibile attraverso lavorazioni di legni e altri materiali pregiati, curate “pezzo per pezzo”. Dal punto di vista industriale potrebbe sembrare una contraddizione. Sicuramente è stata una scelta controcorrente per allora, in una fase ancora di grande entusiasmo verso i materiali sintetici:

Il costume dell’abitare, dell’arredare, si è evoluto profondamente e con il nome Maxalto si è sviluppata una serie di pezzi completamente diversi, regolarmente arricchiti nelle tipologie e nelle variazioni formali, tutti disegnati da Antonio Citterio.

siasm towards synthetic materials. Yet the Maxalto experience proves that even wood can be transformative when worked in such a way as to show unexpected formal qualities and characteristics.

Many years have passed since then: the custom of inhabiting and furnishing spaces has evolved deeply. Under the same name Maxalto has developed a series of completely different pieces, regularly enriched by formal variations and styles, all designed by Antonio Citterio. Among the new “masters”, Citterio has certainly distinguished himself for his versatile, eclectic skills – up to the splitting of his personality – to assume from time to time the design attitude and the mood best suited to the occasion. His office chairs will therefore be both comfortable and very technological, his lamps capable of being adapted to both public and private settings; even when asked to design a gymnastic machine, he addresses it as living space equipment rather than one of those mechanical contraptions of the world of fitness, obsessed with records and performances.

So when Citterio started to visualize a landscape of domestic objects for Maxalto, he began by researching modern furniture (“bourgeois”, as he will later describe his very first Modus collection), where wood was used predominantly and for very defined product types: from bookshelves to dressers, chairs and small armchairs. The quality was provided by the detail and masterful craftsmanship, although the search for iconic objects was secondary to the desire to create a total environment with a uniform style that does not give up the geometric simplification of the forms but accompanies it to a refined, subtle quality of realization, able to recover – or invent – even artisanal production techniques.

With the evolution of his different collections, Citterio has defined the most important reference for this production line: precisely eppure nell’esperienza Maxalto anche il legno diventa una materia trasformista, lavorata in modo da mostrare caratteristiche e qualità formali inaspettate.

Molti anni sono da allora passati: il costume dell’abitare, dell’arredare, si è evoluto profondamente e sotto lo stesso nome Maxalto si è sviluppata una serie di pezzi completamente diversi, regolarmente arricchiti nelle tipologie e nelle variazioni formali, tutti disegnati da Antonio Citterio. Tra i nuovi “maestri”, Citterio si è sicuramente distinto per una capacità versatile, eclettica – fino allo sdoppiamento di personalità – di assumere di volta in volta l’atteggiamento progettuale e il mood più adatto all’occasione. Le sue sedie per ufficio saranno quindi comode ma anche molto tecnologiche, le sue lampade capaci di trascorrere dagli ambienti pubblici a quelli privati: e perfino quando gli viene chiesto di progettare una macchina per esercizi ginnici, si rapporta ad essa come un’attrezzatura per l’abitare, piuttosto che a quei meccanici marchingegni predominanti nel mondo della fitness, ossessionato da record e prestazioni.

Così quando Citterio ha iniziato a immaginare per Maxalto un paesaggio di oggetti domestici, è partito proprio da una ricerca sull’arredamento moderno (“borghese”, come avrà occasione di scrivere della sua primissima collezione Modus), dove prevaleva l’uso del legno, per tipologie molto definite: dalla libreria alla cassetiera, sedie e poltroncine. La qualità era data dal dettaglio e dall’esecuzione di alta qualità artigianale, ma meno importante risultava la ricerca di oggetti iconici, rispetto al desiderio di creare un ambiente complessivo di stile omogeneo: che non rinuncia cioè alla semplificazione geometrica delle forme ma l’accompagna a una qualità molto raffinata, quasi nascosta, della realizzazione, recuperando – o inventando – tecniche di realizzazione pur sempre artigianali.

that intense phase, which lasted no more than a decade in Europe, between the 1920s and the 1930s, in which the mechanical nature of the modernist furniture of Le Corbusier / Perriand, Breuer, Mies, is softened by the great art deco designers such as Adnet, Mallet-Stevens, Jean Michel – or Josef – Frank (homonyms, not relatives). If for these designers it is mainly a matter of creating a refined exercise on the domestic interior as a gym for furnishing ideas, for those who, like Citterio, come to the topic after having refined their skills on real industrial products for B&B Italia, it is a special commitment: to create a series of pieces that interact with each other in a similar language of homogeneous shapes and materials, with a contemporary formal quality, which in turn can interact in balance with furnishings of different styles and eras, ultimately setting up an entire living space.

A successful squaring of the circle, given by the designer's ability and versatility, but also thanks to the functional and material components of Maxalto's identity. This stands out for the quality of standardiza-

As the new collections unfolded, a most important reference for this production line had surfaced: precisely that intense phase, which lasted no more than a decade in Europe, between the 1920s and the 1930s, in which the mechanical nature of the modernist furniture of Le Corbusier / Perriand, Breuer, Mies, is softened by the great art deco designers.

tion in the furniture scene, lately crowded by recovery operations of a certain vintage image, which makes us look back at past seasons of furniture with a touch of romance but little sense of innovation.

Con l'evoluzione delle diverse collezioni si è definito il riferimento più importante di Citterio per questa produzione: proprio quella fase intensa, che dura in Europa non più di una decade, tra gli anni Venti e Trenta del Novecento – in cui la meccanicità del mobile modernista dei Le Corbusier/ Perriand, Breuer, Mies, viene ammorbidita dai grandi designer Art Déco come Adnet, Mallet-Stevens, Jean Michel – o Josef – Frank (omoniimi ma non parenti). Se per questi designer si tratta soprattutto di realizzare un raffinato esercizio sull'interno domestico come palestra di idee per l'arredamento, per chi come Citterio arriva sul tema dopo aver affinato le capacità su veri prodotti industriali per B&B Italia, si tratta di un impegno speciale: creare una serie di pezzi che dialogano tra loro in un linguaggio analogo di forme e materiali omogenei, con una qualità formale contemporanea ma che a loro volta possono interagire in modo equilibrato con arredi di altri stili ed epoche fino a costituire un intero spazio abitativo.

Una quadratura del cerchio che riesce grazie alla capacità e la versatilità del progettista, ma anche per le componenti funzionali e materiali dell'identità Maxalto. Questa si distingue intanto per la qualità di standardizzazione nel panorama dell'arredamento, ultimamente affollato da operazioni di recupero di una certa idea di vintage, che fa guardare con un pizzico di romanticismo e poco spirito d'innovazione alle stagioni passate del mobile. In questo nostalgico tentativo di ritorno a chissà quale belle époque, la qualità degli oggetti non sempre è allineata con i necessari standard di durata e prestazioni. Tutti i pezzi Maxalto sono invece realizzati con materiali pregiati, controllati nella loro qualità in tutte le fasi del processo di produzione. I materiali e le tecnologie ricercati, scelti e utilizzati fanno parte integrante dello studio progettuale e produttivo di ogni modello, che come

In this nostalgic attempt to return to some kind of Belle Epoque, the quality of the objects is not always aligned with the necessary standards of durability and performance. Instead, all Maxalto pieces are made of finest materials and are checked for quality throughout all stages of the production process. The materials and technologies which are sought, selected and used are an integral part of the design and production study of each model, which is developed at the Piero Ambrogio Busnelli Research and Development Center, just like the B&B Italia products.

These products silently and elegantly adapt even to the newest requirements for environmental compatibility, on which the destiny of Italian supremacy in the field of furniture depends. The finish of the wood parts, for example, is carried out with non-toxic water paint. Compared to a normal solvent-based paint, this composition results in a lower percentage of harmful emissions: releasing mostly water vapor, water-based paints reduce the emission of various powders and particles by 95%. As for the duration, the upholstered furniture (sofas, armchairs, chairs, beds) has a ten-year warranty on the internal structure from the date of manufacture.

The same also applies for other components of the product (coatings, materials, accessories, mechanisms) which are guaranteed for over two years against any possible imperfection from the date of manufacture. At the same time Maxalto establishes itself as a brand with its own precise identity in the market, independent in choosing its designs: the products are made in one of its plants, which includes the processing of different types of wood and other high-quality materials.

By now it has established itself as an important economic reality also for the contract and special projects market, adapting to it because of its ability to create customized nuova richiesta/necessità di compatibilità ambientale su cui pure si gioca il destino della supremazia italiana nel campo del mobile. Le finiture delle parti in legno sono ad esempio realizzate con verniciatura atossica ad acqua. Rispetto ad una normale vernice a solvente, da questa composizione risulta una percentuale inferiore di emissioni nocive: rilasciando per lo più vapore acqueo, le vernici ad acqua riducono del 95% l'emissione nell'ambiente di polveri e particelle diverse. Per quanto riguarda la durata, i mobili imbottiti (divani, poltrone, sedie, letti) hanno sulla struttura interna una garanzia decennale dalla data di fabbricazione.

E così anche per altre componenti del prodotto (rivestimenti, materiali, accessori, meccanismi) garantite per oltre due anni per qualsiasi imperfezione dalla data di fabbricazione. Allo stesso tempo Maxalto si afferma come un marchio con una sua precisa identità sul mercato, autonomo nelle scelte progettuali: i prodotti vengono realizzati in un suo stabilimento, che comprende la lavorazione di legni e altri materiali pregiati. Si tratta ormai di una realtà economica importante anche per il mercato del contract e dei progetti speciali, solutions for every different client: it is a form of customization that improves the user's experience even in those contemporary public places that may not always be welcoming (offices, restaurants, airports), and where it is reassuring to find a domestic dimension given by the furnishings.

In turn, the quality of production of every individual part, the richness and adaptability of variants and the recovery of precious materials (from leather to marble) would not be enough to create such a remarkable identity in the production of furnishings, no matter how sophisticated. The image of contemporary furniture cannot be reconstructed simply starting from the choice of materials, otherwise even neo-baroque productions would have the right to citizenship in the world of design. Citterio is well aware of this limitation and for this reason, in designing the many Maxalto products, which now include almost all types of furniture (including lamps), he insists on some characteristic aspects related to his work as an architect. This way the design of the structures, both metal and wood, becomes more important as they sustain containers, tables, chairs and are almost always voluntarily left in sight: the supports cross, multiply, and are finished with paint, chrome dimensione domestica data dall'arredamento.

A loro volta, la qualità di realizzazione dei singoli pezzi, la ricchezza e l'adattabilità delle varianti, il recupero di materiali pregiati (dalle pelli al marmo) di per sé non sarebbero sufficienti a creare un'identità così riconoscibile di una produzione d'arredamento, per quanto sofisticata. Non si ricostruisce l'immagine del mobile contemporaneo semplicemente a partire dalla scelta dei materiali, altrimenti anche le produzioni neobarocche avrebbero diritto di cittadinanza nel mondo del design. Citterio è ben cosciente di questo limite e per questo nel progettare i molteplici prodotti Maxalto, che comprendono ormai quasi tutte le tipologie d'arredamento (incluse le lampade), insiste su alcuni aspetti caratteristici legati al suo lavoro d'architetto. Così assume molta importanza il disegno delle strutture, sia di metallo che di legno, che sostengono contenitori, tavoli, sedute e quasi sempre vengono lasciate volontariamente a vista: i sostegni si incrociano, si moltiplicano, vengono rifiniti con verniciature, cromature, nichelature che esaltano la loro presenza, li rendono parte integrante dell'immagine – e ovviamente della emphasized, and in others reduced to the bare minimum, make up a real “vocabulary” of technical-formal solutions for the same problem, with which the designer (evidently) amuses himself by creating many variations.

The operation of constructing, or reconstructing, an image of contemporary furniture and its physical identity without denying its modern origins, has been successful. Citterio is too experienced a designer not to let his references transpire, so as not to give the observer and the user all the clues to understand what lies behind those perfect objects. As in any story that observes the rules of suspense, those who see and use those products will eventually discover their cultural origins and treasure the possibility given today by Maxalto to live, or relive through them, a vital part of the history of modern furniture.

funzionalità – del prodotto. In qualche caso enfatizzate, in altri ridotte al minimo indispensabile, queste strutture compongono un vero e proprio “vocabolario” di soluzioni tecnico-formali per uno stesso problema, su cui il progettista si diverte (evidentemente) a creare molte variazioni.

Sembra anche così riuscita l'operazione di costruire, o ricostruire, un'identità fisica e d'immagine del mobile contemporaneo, senza negarne le origini moderne. Citterio è progettista troppo esperto per non lasciar trasparire i suoi riferimenti, per non dare all'osservatore e all'utilizzatore tutti gli indizi per capire cosa c'è dietro questi oggetti così perfetti. Come in ogni racconto che rispetti le regole della suspense, chi guarda o usa questi prodotti potrà alla fine scoprirne l'origine culturale e apprezzare la possibilità data oggi da Maxalto di vivere, o rivivere, con essi anche un pezzo importante della storia del mobile moderno.

Plaid and cushions dress the living and the night room exploring sober and natural shades, really chic. Cashmere and extra-thin wool represent the very raw material of a home interior, made of warm, soft, precious sensations, both tactile and visual. The cashmere used by B&B Italia comes from the Hircus goat, native to Asian plateaus, living up to an altitude of 6.000 meters. Its wool is considered to be the finest quality on the market. Cashmere offers a natural soft touch and extreme comfort to the fabric, while pure Merino wool reinforces its structure. Our cashmere articles are made even more valuable by Italian weaving: the city of Biella is the most qualified wool district worldwide and a center of excellence known for the purity and quality of its water, which is always a key element for wool production.

Plaid e cuscini che vestono il living e lo spazio notte con tonalità sobrie e naturali, molto chic. Cashmere e lane extrafini, rappresentano la materia prima di una collezione tessile per la casa, fatta di calde, morbide, preziose sensazioni tattili e visive. Il cashmere utilizzato da B&B Italia proviene dalla capra Hircus, originaria degli altipiani dell'Asia dove vive fino a 6.000 metri di altezza, il cui filato è considerato il più fine e pregiato in commercio. Il cashmere regala una mano soffice ed estrema piacevolezza al prodotto, mentre pura lana merino rinforza l'armatura del tessuto. I capi in cashmere vengono ulteriormente valorizzati dalla tessitura italiana: la città di Biella, polo laniero più qualificato al mondo, è un punto di eccellenza mondiale per la purezza e la qualità dell'acqua, da sempre protagonista nelle lavorazioni della lana.
